business air travel tips

Whether it's planning for a presentation or an important meeting, getting ready can seem like a project of its own. Keep your workload to a minimum, and make the most of your time:

Optimise your tech...

Come prepared for the long-haul with apps, music and films to keep you distracted. It's surprising how much of your sanity you can preserve by playing on a £1 app!

Economical travel

No stranger to a commute? Remember those re-usable items that save you time and money. Bring a wash bag you can use and re-use again...

Work hard, play hard

Escape the stresses of work; staring at spreadsheets and writing proposals may burn up a few hours, but it doesn't make them vanish. Why not check out the local bars and restaurants instead?

Prepare, prepare, prepare!

Nobody knows you better than you, so anticipate your own needs. Check your flight times, check in online and always, always, charge your phone!

Where's my passport?

We've all been there – that moment your heart drops, as you hopelessly hunt for your passport. It's at the bottom of your bag, right?

Pack efficiently

For overnight travel be geared up for comfort! Ear plugs, travel pillows and a cosy blanket - it's a good night all around.

Family fun

It's always nice to see a friendly face, especially when travelling. There's plenty of ways to connect with family and friends via free apps such as Skype and WhatsApp.

8

Don't rely on the internet

It's a long commute, but it can feel even longer without Wi Fi! If you need research, do it the night before... but remember to save it to your device. Simple.

Early travel

This is another big one. All too often, people struggle to make their 9am meeting. If you have a morning meeting, it's best to travel the night before.

10

Travel in style

Start your business travel off in a stylish airport lounge - providing a peaceful environment, with complimentary drinks, food, magazines & Wi-Fi.
